Only 75 feet separated the bodies of Wallace Bourgeois Jr., 4, and his companion Casper E. Maurigi, 15, who were drowned while on a holiday camping trip Friday.

Following a grueling five day search, Maurigi's body was found about three and a half feet of water at the mouth of Hickory Creek around 7:30 P.M. Tuesday, March 21.

Over 400 volunteers including skin divers from Hancock and surrounding Coast counties, Civil defense units, the Orange Grove Fire Department, National Guard, Mississippi Conservation and game wardens, began an intensive search Friday when it was learned the two Bay High students had fallen into the swollen creek which rose to approximately 35 feet following heavy rains the night before and all that day.

Along with Lewis Kempf, Jr., Larry Cox, George Garcia and Forest Bourgeois Jr., Maurigi and Bourgeois set up a camp on a sandbar between Hickory and Catlaoula Creeks Thursday afternoon; when the creek started to rise and trapped the youngsters, they were forced to take refuge in tree tops. According to reports, the rescued youths said Maurigi and Bourgeois dropped into the swift current, approximately an hour before the other were rescued, in an effort to swim for help; they vanished from sight shortly afterwards.

Friday morning, around 9:00 o'clock, Mrs. Kempf and Mrs. Cox heard cries for help when they went down to get the boys. They sought help and the four boys were rescued by Jimmy Ray Ladner of Kiln who took them from their refuge in the pine trees.

The weather hampered the search as the rising water forced searchers to evacuate the area Sunday afternoon around 2:15 P.M. Ray and Steve Stieff found young Bourgeois' body as they waded in a lagoon on the North side of the Catlaoula branch, about a fourth of a mile from the campsite.

The search, directed by Sheriff Price, Kenneth Whitfield and Lucien Kidd, of the local Civil Defense, which was made hazardous by poisonous snakes and debris, continued until 7:30 P.M. Tuesday night when Harold Saucier discovered Maurigi's body as a group of other searchers were manning floodlights to aid in the hunt.

Young Bourgeois was the son of Wallace Joseph and Mary Grace Cucurullo Bourgeois of Waveland.

He is also survived by two brothers, Joseph Bourgeois of Waveland, and Charles Frank Bourgeois, currently serving in the U. S. Navy; and three sisters, Mrs. Wesley Dorn, Miss Geraldine Marie Bourgeois and Miss Grace Ann Bourgeois, all of Waveland.

Funeral services were held at 3 P.M. Wednesday from Fahey-Whitfield Funeral Home, with religious rites conducted by Rev. M. J. Costello at St. Clare's Catholic Church in Waveland. Interment was in Waveland Cemetery.

Palbearers were Terrell Bourgeois, J. Lagasse, Gene Ferry, Billy Bradford, J. D. Bourgeois and Forest Bourgeois.

Funeral services for the Maurigi youth were held today at 9:45 A.M. from Fahey-Whitfield Funeral Home, followed by religious rites at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church. Interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Palbearers were: Nelson C. Rinder, Jr., Bobby Poudin, Manuel Maurigi, Jr., Lewis Kempf, Jr., Phil Thomas, Jimmy Farrell, Son of Casper B. and Mary This Schilling Maurigi of Bay St. Louis, he is survived by two sisters, Brenda Alice and Ginger Leigh Maurigi of Bay St. Louis; two brothers, Richard Donald Maurigi of New Orleans and Victor Moss Maurigi of Bay St. Louis; and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Schilling of Bay St. Louis. The maternal grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Casper P. Maurigi of Bay St. Louis.

Examine On 100000
In Mississippi During Past Decade
While America is being faced with a serious shortage of books, the state of Mississippi has been fortunate in the past decade to have had a public library system which has been able to supply the needs of the state. During this period of unprecedented library growth, city and county officials have considered books and reading important enough to increase local funds for all libraries for all purposes from $200,000 in 1950 to slightly over $2,000,000 in 1960.

Statistics generally make for very dull reading. But they become exciting when one considers the significance involved in the astounding increase of books available to Mississippi readers in public libraries from 267,000 ten years ago to a million and a quarter today!

Why this surge of interest in making books available? Several factors have combined to cause Mississippi's civic leaders to look at their libraries objectively, find them wanting (or completely absent) and set out to do something about them.

Increased awareness of education as a lifelong process — not restricted to school years — has brought communities to consider their libraries as the "people's university."

A sound master plan for statewide library development drawn up in 1948 gave library trustees a good blue print while preserving local authority and providing for individual individual community differences.

A state agency — the Mississippi Library Commission — is charged by law with the responsibility for giving guidance to the citizens of Mississippi who wish to establish new libraries or improve the ones they have.

This commission is devoted to the idea that advice (which it is supposed to give) is neither welcome nor worth much unless it is accompanied by hard work and cash.

The commission staff has always been willing to work hard, but it remained for the Federal Library Service Act of 1955 to supply the much-needed cash.

There is still a long, long way

OF YOUR CHOICE

There is a deep gloom that sometimes enshrouds the human soul. It comes silently, and usually without warning. Like an evening fog it seems to rise out of the marshes and imprison us in its chill tentacles.

Men call it by many names. To one it is UNCERTAINTY. To another, WORRY. To the most harassed, FEAR.

But always it hides the brightness in life . . . and makes us feel the surrounding shadows.

LIGHTING THE SHADOWS

There is a gleam of faith that is capable of penetrating the gloom. It seems to leap time and space to unite the soul with God. Men call it PRAYER.

And whether in the quiet of meditation, or in the thrilling unison of a congregation at worship, it pierces life's shadows. It lights our next step!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL

ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Please go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

APRIL 1ST IS DEADLINE FOR RELEASING UN-NEEDED COTTON ACREAGE ALLOTMENTS TO ASC

Mississippi farmers were reminded Friday that April 1 is the deadline for the releasing un-needed cotton acreage allotments to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee for re-assignment to other farmers in the state.

The reminder came from Fred M. Bush, Jr., Director of the Mississippi Agricultural and Industrial Board, who pointed out that farmers failing to plant or release any of their 1961 allotment will lose 50 per cent of their 1962 allotment and face possible loss of their entire cotton allotment.

"State farmers failed to utilize their full allotment potentials last year," said Bush. "Under plantings amounted to 7.1 per cent of the available 117,205-acre allotment. If effectively utilized, this acreage would have resulted in an additional $15,000,000 for these farmers.

"Last year, 31 counties failed to plant 50 per cent of their allotments and 22 counties fell below the 70 per cent level. This is a big money loss to all Mississippi farmers, bankers, fertilizer dealers, merchants, let's put a stop to it. Use your acreage, or release it -- be loose."

Lloyd West, Manager of the Agricultural Industries Department of the Agricultural and Industrial Board, has been making a similar appeal to cotton farmers, urging them to release acreage they don't need, refrain from asking for more acreage than is needed, and plant all acres requested.

Governor Barnett, too, issued a recent statement urging cotton producers to analyze their allotment needs thoroughly and then either utilize your entire allotment or release it to your local ASC committee for reassignment to other farmers in Mississippi.

Good Samaritan Girl Scout Unit Has Much Enthusiasm In Program

BY CAROL MARTINOLICH

Enthusiasm in Girl Scout activities at the Good Samaritan Training Center in Gulfport is exercised no less than in any other Girl Scout troop.

The 13 members of Troop 333 are taught to grow into happy, more useful persons just as every other Girl Scout.

While these girls will not receive ranks and badges as other members of the Girl Scouts do, they are given the opportunity to learn how these badges are earned in the different fields of the scouting program.

For instance, to qualify for the cooking badge, a Scout must be able to read and understand the recipe, measure the ingredients without help, and cook the mixed ingredients.

To familiarize the girls with their uniforms, emblem, crest and pins, they were given sheets of paper with drawings of each.

After being instructed on the appropriate coloring of the uniform, the girls cut out a paper doll and dressed it in the Girl Scout uniform. In this way, the Scouts learned the color of their uniform and how they should wear it.

The same procedure was adopted to acquaint the girls with the crest, emblem and pins.

The Girl Scout Promise was modified into an understandable form for the girls and the 10 Girl Scout Laws were dramatized and demonstrated one by one, until the members grasped the meaning of each.

The troop at the training center was granted its charter on Nov. 13, 1960, and meetings are held each Tuesday afternoon at the center. The scouting program at the center began with the 1960 61 school session.

The number 333 was deliberately given to the troop because the girls could more easily recognize and remember the troop number if all three numbers were alike.

Troop 333 is part of the Azalea Neighborhood and is sponsored by the Gulf Coast Branch of the American Association of University Women.

Mrs. Fay B. Kizire is the leader of the troop. Her patience with and understanding of these children is remarkable.

Mrs. Kizire was program committee chairman of the former Live Oak Council in Gulfport before it dissolved and went in with Gulf Pines Council. She was also program director with the United Service Organization - Salvation Army during World War II.

Grand Jury Report

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF HANCOCK COUNTY, MISSISSIPPI
MARCH 23, 1961

TO THE HONORABLE JUDGE B. GRANT, CIRCUIT JUDGE, FRESHING

We, the Grand Jury, having been empaneled, sworn and charged, for the term assessed, and the Court aforesaid, during its session for four days, during which we have investigated the cases, have heard 24 witnesses, and have returned 24 true indictments.

We have inspected the County Jail and found it to be clean and well kept, though somewhat in a crowded condition.

We have likewise visited the County Home and found this in excellent condition and being well managed. We made a trip to Hancock General Hospital and were impressed by its clean condition and excellent management.

We have made an inspection of the court house building and offices. We have also notice that a prior grand jury had made similar inspections. The general condition of the Court House is very unsatisfactory. The building is in a poor state of repair. Facilities in most of the offices are inadequate. Plaster is falling down and painting should have been accomplished in every area. The colored rest rooms are inadequate. The Circuit Clerk does not even have an office to himself. The Sheriff's office is by far too small; the jail is too small, inadequate and outdated. In general, the entire county Court House is inadequate, in a poor state of repair, and a poor advertisement for the people of Hancock County.

For years the Grand Jury reports have recommended that the Court House be renovated and
